How to use VAIO Control Center for Windows 7.UPDATE: AT&T confirms that the iPad 3G/4G is not a new model, but only a new SKU of the iPad 2G/3G. Here's our original post. Does an iPad 3G/4G come out this month, as one analyst is predicting? CNet's Chaim Gartenberg says they're planning a 4G iPad for the "second half of the year". He says it will be shipped at the same price as the current 3G/4G 16GB Wi-Fi model, but will have a 32GB model as well. The 4G models will not support the LTE bands required to take advantage of 4G network speeds, but Gartenberg says AT&T has the "technology in place" to support LTE with the iPad. Gartenberg says he wouldn't be surprised if the iPad 3G/4G was announced in June, and CNet has published a picture of what might be the unit. The news follows rumors that Apple is already beta testing a 4G version of the iPad for AT&T subscribers. Rumors of the
